There was some interest in this a while back.Looks like it requires a machine shop to build it though.

I am thinking that that previous kit project shown in herewould be the best deal. This piece does explain a bit of the type of motorneeded for a build. Very likely the guy would like to discuss it. Maybe you canconvince him to post in here (?)

It would be nice to invite those folks to hang out with us. But I'm not a member of diyAudio.com, so I can't contact "livemusic" or any of the other members there. My participation here on AudioRoundTable.com takes all my spare time and then some. So could you please contact them?
