My boyfriend recently lost his speaker at the beach and hasn't stopped complaining since.
He wants a speaker, but won't get one unless it has Apple and/or Android Bluetooth, is waterproof, and hopefully not outrageously expensive.
I would really like to surprise him, so please reply with any ideas you may have come across.

I have a VicTsing Phoenix waterproof speaker that I love. It comes in different colors, has a suction cup, and a clip so you can hang it off of your belt loop or backpack. You should check this one out, I got mine for around twenty bucks.

I'll look it up!
Is it built well? We had a skull candy speaker with decent sound. One got wet, and they both had a problem with a flaky charge port. They had great sound and a lifetime warranty, but the charge problem was very aggravating.
