What do you think a good logo would be for a radio station besides the normal call letters in a fancy, colorful font? Maybe a space-themed background with the call letters off in a corner somewhere?

I always thought that a good logo for a jazz station would be a city-scape. You can't listen to George Benson or Boz Scaggs without thinking about Chicago.

I am a sailor, so I think it would be fun to have a sailor themed radio show with a name like Steamship. Could play old-time music, with sailor ditties.

They could have an alligator with its mouth open and the call letters in its jaws. That might be fun for a country station. It would be amusing at least.
