Do you think these are worth the price? Has anyone here had any experience with them? Most importantly I guess, has anyone found an extended warranty that was added on to your purchase for no cost?

I always get asked if I want to purchase one of these when I buy certain equipment. I've never actually purchased any of these before because they seem so expensive and nine times out of ten your warranty runs out before you ever get to use it.

I have never had to go back to follow up with issues to deal with warranty. However, I believe that if a company is willing to extend a guarantee at no cost, there is a high chance that the goods being sold are of good quality.
