Vinyl Records are making a comeback. They are getting more popular so turntable systems are getting more popular as well. They are cheaper, and of just as good quality, than the vintage stuff you see so much of.

Dust off the bell bottoms, gate-fold albums and incense kids, the 70's are back!!

I think it's great because my niece is really big into vinyl records right now and she just turned sixteen. This is the only thing that she wanted for her birthday. Now it makes me wish that I would have held onto some of my old records.

Most audiophiles I know prefer vinyl.
Do you prefer CD or Vinyl?

This is interesting news. I don't notice any change around. I'm curious about what causes this news to appear. Or maybe people here prefer digital format more than old style vinyl records. It can be a good reason to get a new turntable, though!
