I was watching the Weather Channel yesterday and I couldn't believe all of the flooding devastation that has happened down south already. I have a friend that lives in Texas and he said that it's been terrible the last few days. I hope this isn't an indication of what their hurricane season is going to be like this year.

Why does all the bad weather always start just east of the Continental divide? States west of that get bad weather too, don't get me wrong, but it just seems more devastating as you go east.
