

---

Subject: Wireless speakers vs wired

Posted by BeccaH on Wed, 11 May 2016 18:44:29 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

As a non-technical person, could anyone advise me on the benefits of wireless speakers over wired ones? I assume they are more expensive, so other than the obvious fact that it looks tidier not having wires trailing around, is there anything else that justifies paying more?

---

---

Subject: Re: Wireless speakers vs wired

Posted by Miami on Sun, 15 May 2016 12:53:23 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

You can place them wherever you want within reason. Aside from looking tidier, you can fine tune the placement with the acoustics of the room for a fuller sound much easier.

---

---

Subject: Re: Wireless speakers vs wired

Posted by BeccaH on Sun, 15 May 2016 16:49:39 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

Thank you Miami. I'm going to ask what might be a pretty dumb question now...is the sound quality the same either way? In my head, having a wire connect the speaker to the source implies that nothing can interfere with the sound as it travels. I guess I'm wondering whether wireless speakers can suffer from 'interference'?

---

---

Subject: Re: Wireless speakers vs wired

Posted by moss24 on Tue, 26 Jul 2016 03:59:20 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

BeccaH wrote on Sun, 15 May 2016 11:49 Thank you Miami. I'm going to ask what might be a pretty dumb question now...is the sound quality the same either way? In my head, having a wire connect the speaker to the source implies that nothing can interfere with the sound as it travels. I guess I'm wondering whether wireless speakers can suffer from 'interference'?

I don't think there will be much difference with sound quality. The only problem I would have with wireless speakers is the maximum distance they have to be placed at (what people like to call reasonable distance).

---