This question needs a question as a response. If you could ask the CEO of an audio company anything, what would it be? Don't be shy.....he/she knows a lot.

What is the profit margin on audio equipment, and how does it differ between brick and mortar stores and online stores?

I thought "CEO" and my mind went straight to the business end of it.

Since vinyl records are making a comeback, how are you responding with the turntables? Are you making sure that the quality of the product remains fully intact?
