I am not much of a radio fan but when I tune in, it is normally because there is a discussion on sports and particularly football. Other times, I love to listen to oldies, specifically country music.

I also like it when they play old songs! I'm not a big fan of such songs, but it's a nice trip down the memory lane once in a while. News is another program I like, mostly because the format is short and quick so only important information is mentioned.

I only listen to the radio when I'm in the car. I normally listen to our local radio station because it plays a good mix of new music and older music. There are also times when I listen to the classical station because it keeps me calm during rush hour.

It seems we more or less listen to the radio by default. I mostly listen to it in the car so that I can get the latest traffic and news updates. The other good thing with radio is that you can listen to it anywhere even if you are on the go.

It seems that people who drive more, listen to the radio more.

I like talk radio and local channels that don't have a corporate entity telling them what to play.
