Does anyone here have any installed? If you do, how is the difference in sound compared to floor or table speakers? I know it must look better, but does it sound better?

This may sound as poor as poor can get, but an in-wall system is on my bucket list. I just love the idea of being able to hear what the speakers put out, but not being able to see the speakers behind sheer cloth.

I haven't seen many people explore this option but I think it can be exciting to actually have in wall speakers. How much do these roughly cost?

As much as they would look great, in wall speakers have too many disadvantages for my liking. For example, it would be harder to upgrade or to relocate later. I think I would stick with the conventional setting.
