I don't think you can get more highbrow than this:

Would you live on an artificial island or a decommissioned Air Force carrier? Excuse the play on words, but some people say it's the "wave" of the future.

Looks like a rich man's game to me.

It would be a great way to live though. I just wonder if a person would get lonely for land. Being on the water for years on end.....it's an interesting thought.
