He seems to have been discovered at a very young age and what an innocent boy he was then. Everyone rubbished his rise to fame, others going to the extent of saying he was going to be a one-hit wonder.

He's definitely changed, whichever way you look at it but isn't JB getting better each day, churning hit after hit?

I think Beiber had lost it at some point but he seems to now be transitioning in the right direction. It is just amazing how some people keep proving everyone else wrong.

I'm really not a fan of Justin Beiber, but I have noticed that he is trying to turn it around again. This seems to be common for child stars to lash out at some point in time and I think the media and growing up too fast has a lot to do with it. I just hope that he can make it work this time.
