Hi,I'm new here.I asked this question in the "ground static" thread but wanted to post it again more specifically.I just bought a used Technics SL-23 turntable.(frequency generator servo belt drive)whatever that means.It's got a strobe scope on it,whatever that does.It's got a new(or so the guy told me)Audio Technics AT3482P cartridge....for sixty five bucks.Pretty good deal it seems.What do you all think?Thanks.Tom

Sixty-five bucks. If it works and sounds good, doesn't eat up records, I think you did OK.
