
Subject: How has radio changed over the years?
Posted by drake on Fri, 21 Oct 2016 21:46:21 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

If you didn't know, radio was initially used for communication between ships at sea. It is amazing that over the years, the radio has evolved to become a major source of news and entertainment.

In your opinion, what has changed over the years?

Subject: Re: How has radio changed over the years?
Posted by Azuri on Tue, 25 Oct 2016 19:58:40 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

drake wrote on Fri, 21 October 2016 16:46 If you didn't know, radio was initially used for communication between ships at sea.

It's funny you should mention that. Decades ago when Casey Casem did the top 20 countdown he also did "dedications". A woman or man would dedicate a love song to another, and one such dedication was from a man to a woman saying they were "two ships that passed in the night".

I think radio will come full circle and return to the days when the broadcasting takes on a simpler job.

Subject: Re: How has radio changed over the years?
Posted by Kingfish on Wed, 26 Oct 2016 18:54:52 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Radio has only changed in regards to peoples' perceptions of it. It isn't perceived as being as useful as it once was, so people don't listen to it as much.

I see less broadcasts of music on the radio and more broadcasts of an informative nature in the future.

Subject: Re: How has radio changed over the years?
Posted by mamoss on Thu, 27 Oct 2016 11:30:49 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Azuri wrote on Tue, 25 October 2016 14:58

A woman or man would dedicate a love song to another, and one such dedication was from a man to a woman saying they were "two ships that passed in the night".

I think radio will come full circle and return to the days when the broadcasting takes on a simpler job.

This is really interesting. I hope I get to experience it when the radio comes full circle. It will be really interesting to reminisce the past, especially when broadcasting wasn't really the main thing.

Subject: Re: How has radio changed over the years?

Posted by Leon on Thu, 03 Nov 2016 15:25:34 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

At the rate the media is reporting non-news and either biased or misleading information, I highly doubt the radio will be revived as anything other than just another channel to serve this purpose.

Subject: Re: How has radio changed over the years?

Posted by bcharlton on Sat, 31 Dec 2016 14:02:13 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

I also doubt if we are ever going to experience the radio coming in a full circle. The rate at which the media is carrying out reporting is quite worrying indeed.
