Any Apple fans here? I have heard that the sound of the device has been greatly improved compared to its predecessors, but how do you think it holds up if it's to be your main on-the-go player?

My friend recently got an IP7 and we played a few songs using it. I agree that it sounds good but I could never imagine using a phone as my main music player. Not sure why, though.

I haven't got mine yet, but the reviews are promising. I personally didn't find that much to complain about its predecessors, but I'm always glad to see improvement in the newer versions where technology is concerned.

I'm using an iPhone 7 and I think the sound is just great. Of course I don't always play it full blast, but when I need to play it a bit louder than normal, it sounds OK to me.
