Does anyone have any experience with this? Discussions about Wordpress always seem to center around just building a web site. I would like to know how compatible Wordpress is to the playing, making, downloading and sharing of music.

Is it friendly to those formats I guess is what I'm asking.

If you don't see discussions anywhere on the web about the musical capabilities of WordPress, there's probably a reason for that. I haven't seen any so I'm under the impression that WordPress isn't really suited for that application.

WordPress actually has "amped" up the musical capabilities of the sites you can make through them. They seem to have progressed well through the years in this regard.
