The holidays are just around the corner, and it's time to start looking for gifts to give to our loved ones. What would you recommend as a perfect gift for someone who loves music and sports?

I don't know if there is a gift that could include both music and sports, but I found the best music gift ever. I'm getting my husband a pick punch for his guitar. It's a punch where he can make his own guitar picks out of old credit cards or store cards. I can't wait until he opens that gift on Christmas morning.

I have always had a difficulty choosing between several gifts during the holiday period. I would suggest narrowing down on the favorite sport, then looking for something around this.

Thanks for the replies, guys. I know it can get a little frustrating around this time of year, but I'm sure I'll get loads of ideas on this forum.

Is it worth getting an experience gift, you know, the ones that let the receiver choose between various sporting experiences or concerts? That way it is easier to get something that he likes which is convenient to do.

I bought a guided tour of his team's stadium for a friend last year (out of season they are affordable). If he is a fan of a band, signed albums always go down well.
