Happy new year, everyone! I hope you're all enjoying yourselves. I have a quick question for you: What do your sound goals look like in the new year? Are you getting yourself something you've always wanted or are you upgrading your system? Share!

Hi, Happy new year to everyone. I am continuously upgrading or at least changing stuff. The last addition a few weeks back was a Hana EL phono cartridge. A great sounding one if you don't mind the entry price. Most recent (last week) was a sort of audio upgrade as I use my PC for editing. My old trusty one was becoming unreliable (an overclocked ASrock). A new Alienware is in its place. A considerable step up.

I will be keen to do both an upgrade and change, where necessary and/or appropriate. Nonetheless, I hope that this year will be different. Many are the times I have set goals but failed to live up to them.

I hadn't started thinking about this but now that you mentioned it, I might as well think about some. Overall, I think I need to revamp my sound system.
