I do a lot of work on my laptop and I like listening to music while I'm working. The problem is that the sound on my laptop is very soft. What can I do to make it louder?

There are several places to turn the onboard sound up: the speaker icon in the bottom right (or use Help and look for sound) or in the program you are using to play the music. If they are both at max, external speakers or headphones might be louder than your onboard speaker.

My suggestion is also to have external speakers. That is what I had to do because my laptop sound is also very low.
