Would you want to pre-program something like this so you could still "talk" to people after you pass away? It's a new technology that people are starting to use.

Nope. It may comfort some, but could just as easily make it difficult to move on for others.

That is just so eerie. I don't know why anyone would want to do that. You've lived your life, you've played the cards you were dealt, now that it's all at an end, you're trying to reshuffle the deck? I wouldn't do that.
