Subject: Misunderstood Or Unaccepted
Posted by Kingfish on Mon, 13 Mar 2017 19:26:21 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Which one do you think is worse? Would you rather that people not really know where you're coming from when you're talking to them? Or would you rather people understand just fine, but don't accept you or your points of view?

Subject: Re: Misunderstood Or Unaccepted
Posted by Vernon on Mon, 20 Mar 2017 20:54:09 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Neither, both... I don't care. I usually find that it's best not to worry about things like that. If you know the truth of something, and someone else doesn't it doesn't take away from your truth. Soon enough life will show them the truth, too. Words don't teach anyway. Only life experience does.

Subject: Re: Misunderstood Or Unaccepted
Posted by gofar99 on Tue, 21 Mar 2017 20:18:29 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Hi, I would rather they understand, and not agree. It enhances communication between folks to know where each stands on things. Otherwise you will not be able to interface with them well. Disagreements can lead to compromise, misunderstandings IMO seldom get resolved well. YMMV

Subject: Re: Misunderstood Or Unaccepted
Posted by Bercle on Tue, 13 Oct 2026 08:45:19 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

I am happier if people understand what I am saying. I can't force them to align with my opinion as they might have a contrary opinion on the said subject. It is worse when they misunderstood the information that I am presenting.

It is more like the communication channel is faulty which makes holding a discussion with them almost impossible.

Subject: Re: Misunderstood Or Unaccepted
Posted by George on Thu, 22 Oct 2026 18:28:48 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Bercle wrote on Tue, 13 October 2026 03:45I am happier if people understand what I am saying. I can't force them to align with my opinion as they might have a contrary opinion on the said subject. It is worse when they misunderstood the information that I am presenting.

It is more like the communication channel is faulty which makes holding a discussion with them almost impossible.
I am a bit indifferent about how anyone thinks about me. It is their cup of tea whether they understand what I meant or not. Do you also know that there are those who would chose the side that you don't like just to make you feel bad, have you considered that?