Subject: Numark TT1610
Posted by Enty on Wed, 06 Apr 2005 22:37:52 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Can someone please advise me. I'm simply a "home" user looking for a budget turntable to play some old vinyl I have. I have surfed the net & the TT1610 seems good value - would anyone recommend (bearing in mind that I'm on a budget & it's for basic home use)Thanks

Subject: Re: Numark TT1610
Posted by Manualblock on Wed, 06 Apr 2005 23:47:57 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Turntable factory; get a used Technics SL 3300 or something similar. He rebuilds them and cleans them up for a fair price. That table should run about 125-150 $.

Subject: Re: Numark TT1610
Posted by Enty on Thu, 07 Apr 2005 12:36:07 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Thanks Manualblock - I live in the UK so shipping can be quite expensive for this sort of thing - there are used turntables on our UK version of eBay, but they tend to be private sellers & I'm not sure that I fancy "taking a chance" This is why I was considering the TT1610 & wondered if anyone had used it & could recommend it for light home use. Many Thanks.