I just bought my daughter a dollhouse for her next birthday, but I'd like to make it a little more special by putting in a way to play music inside. Any ideas of how I can accomplish this?

Sure.....Honey, I shrunk the stereo!

This would be a tricky one. You would have to buy or make custom sized speakers that would fit inside the house and "shrink" the frequencies as well to accommodate a regular sized stereo.

I don't know.....any frequency experts out there?

I am no expert but this sounds like it's really going to be complicated to achieve. Is there no other way you can think of making that dollhouse more unique?
