Can someone please point me in the right direction for where to get speakers for the best price or even at discounted prices?

Hi, A good start would be to let us know what you are hooking them up to, what type of music do you listen to, how much space you have in the listening area, your budget and anything else that might help narrow down the suggestions.

How much are you willing to spend? Remember you can get anything for almost any price. As gofar has mentioned, your specifications and budget will be of great help in narrowing down to what will work for you.

Thanks guys, but I was reading through the other older threads here and I found where someone had the same issue as me, and so now my question has been answered.
