

---

Subject: Do you think that music should fit the scenes? Or is it just personal preference?

Posted by PlayerNM on Sat, 03 Jun 2017 03:18:31 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

I think you can either make or break a movie based on the music that is used. For instance, would Psycho be as good without the music for the show scene? Don't you need a build in intensity when horror shows get to the scary parts? Let me know your thoughts.

---

---

Subject: Re: Do you think that music should fit the scenes? Or is it just personal preference?

Posted by Amber on Sat, 03 Jun 2017 18:18:16 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

I have never seen Psycho, but I do know what you are talking about. I think that the music show absolutely fit the scene and what's going on. Otherwise it will take me out of the moment.

---

---

Subject: Re: Do you think that music should fit the scenes? Or is it just personal preference?

Posted by Tadtone on Sun, 04 Jun 2017 15:10:11 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

Sound really does need to fit the scenes and they even have music and sound directors to make sure. If you look at the work of composers like John Williams, the work that goes into film scores is incredible. Another great example of an iconic score is Jaws.

---

---

Subject: Re: Do you think that music should fit the scenes? Or is it just personal preference?

Posted by WorkingWoman2017 on Mon, 19 Jun 2017 21:28:40 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

Recently, I watched 50 Shades of Grey. I wasn't very impressed with the soundtrack for that one, however, the second movie, 50 Shades Darker, had much more on-point music. Just my opinion.

---