Do you believe we haven't seen anything yet, as far as radio is concerned? I see a comeback of what we'd call the local radio that mainly centered on advertisements. I feel that market forces and consumer demand are fuelling a revolution of what we used to have back in the day. Your thoughts?

Hi, I haven't seen any indication of that here. Fewer stations every year.

I agree with gofar99 that there seems to be less and less stations these days. However, I wouldn't mind if more stations started to pop up.
