Is it just me, or do some shows seem to lack good music these days? I think that music used to be so much better on shows.

I think many are cost cutting, which means they are just buying music from stock libraries and mixing it instead of creating specific themes for the shows. I had noticed so many shows now seem to sound the same and use the same audio queues.

vhfspeaks, I agree it seems shows would rather pay less for music from stock libraries instead of buying licenses for better music. It's starting to take away from movies and shows if you ask me.
