I have noticed that most people have an obsession or love people with different accents from them. Am I the only one who has noticed this?

I love the genteel tone of a Virginian, but I think British and Australian accents will always be my favorites. The British always sound refined and Australians sound so friendly and happy.

What's your preference?

I love the Latin accents. They sound so melodic and sexy! They can tell me anything and make it sound so romantic. Maybe I'm just a sucker!
