

---

Subject: Why Not Go Back Farther?

Posted by decibel 12 on Tue, 05 Sep 2017 14:29:41 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

This is 2017. Every radio station that plays "oldies" only go as far back as the '60's. Do you know of anyone who has tried to get a radio station going that played music from the '20's to the '40's? Are there online stations that do this?

I understand that most people who grew up listening to music from those era's are gone now, so stations could not appeal to that demographic. Some of us though would like easy access to those era's just to hear what was put out.

What do you think? Would you get a kick out of hearing the number one song from Sept. of 1935?

https://www.youtube.com/watch?time\_continue=3&v=WOYzFKizikU

---

---

Subject: Re: Why Not Go Back Farther?

Posted by Wayne Parham on Tue, 05 Sep 2017 21:42:44 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

On AM radio, there are a handful of stations that play music and talk radio programs from that era. The stations I'm familiar with (KFAQ in Tulsa and KURM in Northwestern Arkansas) have one or two hour programs on the weekend that broadcast various programs from the pre-WWII era.

---

Subject: Re: Why Not Go Back Farther?

Posted by sawyer25 on Fri, 08 Sep 2017 00:52:11 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

There are quite a number of stations that play music from that era but I guess there aren't many. There's nothing wrong with listening to music from that period, only that millennials will suppose you're nuts. I'm just curious to hear what it sounded like back then.

---

---

Subject: Re: Why Not Go Back Farther?

Posted by gofar99 on Tue, 12 Sep 2017 21:16:51 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

Hi. I believe the web version of XM carries some. I believe you can get it without having a satellite account. They were offering it separately.

---

---

Subject: Re: Why Not Go Back Farther?

Posted by Charlie82 on Sat, 23 Sep 2017 05:12:42 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

This has always bothered me too. For whatever reason I love music from the 20s and 30s. I have one local radio station that plays 20s music constantly and it's great. I will have to check out the web version of XM to see if they have more.

I don't know why the cutoff is the 60s. I guess, like you said, the people who grew up listening to that music are probably gone. However, people who have parents that would've listened to that music and probably played it around their children are still around. You think it could still provide some nostalgia for people.

I assume nostalgia is the primary reason people listen to these decade stations (or just to go back to a time when music was good), but surely there's more to it than just that. I don't think it'd be a costly venture either so I'm really not sure what's holding them back.

---

---

Subject: Re: Why Not Go Back Farther?

Posted by Ziggy on Sun, 24 Sep 2017 04:01:23 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

Wow, I really love big band music. I guess I was just born at the wrong time for my soul. I always get so excited when I hear stuff from that era. I hope it never goes away!

---

---

Subject: Re: Why Not Go Back Farther?

Posted by Silver on Thu, 15 Mar 2018 20:33:01 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

Just out of curiosity one day I started listening to old blues on You Tube from that time frame. There were some pretty raunchy songs back then that could be classified as the audio version of x-rated.

No filters.

---