Anyone here vote for Trump? If so, are you feeling buyers remorse yet? I heard on the radio how is base is shrinking ever so slightly in certain parts of the country.

I think you'll have a hard time getting a straight answer out of anyone on this.

Most people don't like to reveal whom they voted for.
Especially now a days.

So heavily judged by people, and even the Media.

In my region, my impression is if you were to reveal in public that you had voted for Hillary, you would be patted on the back, or for Trump, you would be beat the hell out of.

Well, since I'm online and wearing a cloak, I did vote for him. What I have remorse over is not voting for senators. Without a congress that has a president's back, I don't care who the president is. Nothing will get done.

He does give the world the impression that America is in the 5th grade though.

Hi, Usually religion and politics are left off most forums as they can lead to arguements and hurt feelings. I'm not sure this has crossed the line, but it is probably close. Even though the section is for anything that is not illegal....this is mostly an audio forum and quite friendly one as well. Questions like the one posed are IMO better done on other sites.
