

---

Subject: Car Installations

Posted by Ziggy on Sun, 24 Sep 2017 16:25:27 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

Am I the only person in the world that reads the installation guide? My significant other insists that he can do it without reading it, however, he always seems to call me to help once things aren't going the way they should. Does anyone else actually use the guide?

---

---

Subject: Re: Car Installations

Posted by sawyer25 on Mon, 02 Oct 2017 16:35:31 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

I think it depends on what's being installed. Most times I prefer to read the installation guide so that I get everything right the first time. There's nothing as bad as realizing that something's been fixed wrongly then having to start from the beginning.

---

---

Subject: Re: Car Installations

Posted by Souldude on Wed, 27 Oct 2021 08:16:17 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

You can go and follow your hunch, but that risks you wasting time if you end up looking for the manual too. For safety measures, I think it's better to rely on these guides. It prevents harm and avoids damaging any equipment.

---

---

Subject: Re: Car Installations

Posted by gofar99 on Sun, 31 Oct 2021 02:53:04 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

Hi, I just look at the pictures. :lol: Not really, it depends on what I am doing. Most of the time I can do it without the instructions, but there are times when the process is not obvious and I need them.

---