
Subject: Turntablism

Posted by Aria on Sat, 16 Dec 2017 23:57:42 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Is anyone here a turntablist or have some experience DJing with turntables or a DJ Mixer? I've been playing around with basic stuff on my computer but I'm thinking about trying it out in other mediums. Any suggestions for getting started/good equipment/random tips?

Subject: Re: Turntablism

Posted by Pique on Sun, 17 Dec 2017 22:15:54 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

I'm not really into that kind of stuff, but my younger brother is, and he got started by learning from someone who was already good at it. I think that finding a mentor is the best way forward for you, as well.

Subject: Re: Turntablism

Posted by Perfect Storm on Thu, 21 Dec 2017 17:59:51 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

I'm the same as Pique. I don't have personal experience with it but most of the people I know have been mentored by someone. I would suggest looking around Facebook to find someone in your area or posting something up on Craigslist. Otherwise, you might be able to find some videos on YouTube that could help but I really think it's one of those things that is better to learn with someone else with you.

Subject: Re: Turntablism

Posted by Aria on Thu, 21 Dec 2017 19:16:47 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Thanks for the help guys. I figured that would probably end up being my best option, just sort of hoped it wouldn't be my only good one! Ah well, it is what it is, eh? Guess it's time for me to find a mentor.

Subject: Re: Turntablism

Posted by GoldenOldie on Sat, 13 Jan 2018 00:37:57 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

I saw a reply in this forum about a recording turntable. I thought that was outrageous! I can't wait to get more into this information and see how expensive it is. Wonders never cease!

Subject: Re: Turntablism
Posted by Zohanna on Mon, 15 Jan 2018 00:28:57 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

I thought that turntables were going to be a "thing of the past" as far as equipment goes. It is nice to see that there are still some people that love vinyl.

Subject: Re: Turntablism
Posted by gofar99 on Tue, 16 Jan 2018 21:29:45 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Hi, There is a major resurgence in vinyl and the equipment to play it. Several companies are now producing records. Recently I saw an article that indicated that more turntables are now being manufactured than any year since 1990. Unfortunately some are rather poor quality. More records as well.. Even Walmart carries some now. For anyone who is interested in turntables you should visit the vinylengine.com forums. That is where to find out about anything related to turntables and similar topics. Friendly folks with a vast amount of knowledge.

BTW, for newcomers, this can be an expensive undertaking. A good source of records is used music stores. In my area ZIA Record exchange (several locations out west) has a huge selection. I get many for under a dollar.

Subject: Re: Turntablism
Posted by Aria on Wed, 24 Jan 2018 15:55:16 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Hey, Bruce! I had no idea that there was that big of a jump in record production, much less that WalMart was selling them. That's wild ... and amazing! Thank you so much for pointing me in the direction of that forum. I'll be sure to check it out. Alas, I figured it was going to end up being an expensive venture but hey, it might be worth it.

Subject: Re: Turntablism
Posted by Solitary on Thu, 25 Jan 2018 00:08:31 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

My brother recently got a turntable as a present for his birthday, and he is absolutely loving it! I guess the vinyl craze really is here to stay. I love the warm, rich sound that comes from it. It's great.
