Do you ever watch virtual reality games such as the football matches on VRFC? I can't get into them myself but they are increasingly popular.

I've never watched virtual reality sports games before. I didn't even know that was a thing until they started advertising it during the Olympics. I'm not sure if it's something I'd enjoy, but I'll never know for sure unless I give it a go. Maybe I'll give it a go during the next Olympics.

They are increasingly popular. My neighbors even run a betting syndicate on a virtual reality soccer league. But, no, they are not to my taste.

I don't know anyone who watches sports via VR. That's not to say it isn't popular elsewhere, but it hasn't hit here. I feel like a lot of people really want VR to be big, but it's taking a long time to catch on. I'm sort of wondering if it ever will be as big as they want it to be.
