Subject: Headphones with a good bass
Posted by Musique on Mon, 02 Jul 2018 04:13:33 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

I'm thinking to ditch my earphones and switch to headphones. I know I won't find one as good as the home sound system, but I think headphones have a better chance to provide a better bass sound quality. Is there any brand you all can recommend?

Subject: Re: Headphones with a good bass
Posted by Groot on Tue, 03 Jul 2018 02:57:43 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Bose is the brand that immediately came into my mind. What deters me from buying Bose is the price because it is too expensive for me. Sony will be my next option if I were to buy a headphone with a good bass.

Subject: Re: Headphones with a good bass
Posted by Musique on Tue, 03 Jul 2018 09:52:18 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

I'm not a big fan of Sony headphones. As far as I know, they are relatively expensive for a medium sound quality despite being an electronics company. The quality gap to my current earphones is not that huge, so upgrading to them doesn't feel worth it. Bose, for example, is on a different level.

Do you have a specific item from Bose you want to recommend?

Subject: Re: Headphones with a good bass
Posted by Yurimi on Tue, 03 Jul 2018 16:08:38 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Have you ever checked Bose's QuietComfort 35? It's a wireless headphone with good compatibility, sleek design, and wonderful sound quality. It's a great investment for the high price.

Some online reviews recommended Shure's headphones. It seems to provide a decent quality for a great price. I don't know if it has the bass sound you're looking for, though.

Subject: Re: Headphones with a good bass
Posted by Musique on Thu, 05 Jul 2018 04:42:45 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

I just did. Such an amazing price. The reviews do look good, but I'm not ready for something like that. Even Bose's budget ones are still relatively expensive. Maybe someday, but not today.

Thanks for the recommendation, Yurimi. I'll check it out soon. Right now I'm looking at Urbanears Plattan (both the old and new version). Is the bass any good?

---

Subject: Re: Headphones with a good bass
Posted by Groot on Thu, 05 Jul 2018 11:06:05 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

We are on the same page on the price. I like Bose because I have a friend who can buy one and the quality was really amazing when I tried it, especially playing with video games.

---

Subject: Re: Headphones with a good bass
Posted by Lindzz on Mon, 16 Jul 2018 06:10:16 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

I've also been looking for good headphones. My boyfriend swears by Teufel (I believe they're the AIRY bluetooth model), but they are too big for my head. I like headphones that cover my ears and feel a little "tight".

---