I've been looking for a small Bluetooth speaker, mainly for travel but I don't want to spend too much. Now I've seen a lot of good reviews for the JBL Go speaker, but it is so small, I can't imagine the sound quality is great. Does anyone have any experience with really small portable speakers? I'd like for it to be about the size of a smartphone (or smaller).

I've heard good things about the sound quality for the JBL Go speaker, but I've heard that the battery life is a lot shorter than advertised. I have the Anker Soundcore Speaker and it's pretty awesome. I've read that some people complain about the lack of bass, but that doesn't matter a whole lot to me.

Thanks for the recommendation! Yeah, I've read that the battery life is really short, especially when you turn the volume up high, which is what I do. I ordered it because it was inexpensive, so I will try it out. If it doesn't work out, I will look into your recommendation.
