
Subject: New respect for Infinity Black Widow tonearm
Posted by Russellc on Mon, 05 Sep 2005 14:18:25 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

While surfing Ebay, I found an Infinity black Widow tonearm exactly like my own. Mint appearing, original box, instructions, templates etc. I put it in my "watch" list. Just checked the completed auctions and it sold for $500.00! Holy crap, I picked mine up for 50.00! In the "used" section of an expensive stereo store no less. I have been impressed with its performance, but $500? I remember lusting for one back in the 70's when it sold for an unattainable (for me) $250.00 if I remember. WOW.Russellc

Subject: Re: New respect for Infinity Black Widow tonearm
Posted by Manualblock on Mon, 05 Sep 2005 19:36:14 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

50$? I'll give you 60$ right now cash on the barrel. Why be surprised; that's a good arm. Hard to find very low-mass arms now and they are due for a comeback.
