Subject: The Oldies
Posted by Malfoy on Wed, 12 Sep 2018 07:53:03 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

I am in my middle thirties, so I'm not that old yet. However, I like listening to the old songs from the 70's and 80's. I think it is easier to sing along with those songs that the new songs of today.

Subject: Re: The Oldies
Posted by Rusty on Wed, 12 Sep 2018 15:22:36 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Maybe this can explain part of your dilemma.

https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=oVME_l4IwII

Subject: Re: The Oldies
Posted by Malfoy on Fri, 21 Sep 2018 03:56:15 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Thanks for the link and it explained a lot about why it is easier to listen to the oldies than the new songs of today. Pop songs of today sound the same, and that is why I listen mostly to alternative rock, Linkin Park, because the singers write their own songs.

Subject: Re: The Oldies
Posted by mamoss on Sun, 30 Sep 2018 16:06:07 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Nothing compares to the oldies as the musicians (then) were more versatile and creative, with their content and composition. I spare time, over the weekends, to listen to music from the past. The interesting thing is that you could still listen to a musical piece composed in the 70's and still relate to it. What happened to originality and creativity?

That clip is very informative!