
Subject: Garrard Lab 80 - How much is it worth?
Posted by Hellbore on Wed, 05 Oct 2005 05:53:26 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

My Dad gave me an old Garrard Lab 80. It works but the dust cover is missing. I think the changer tree thing is also missing so it is currently only set up to play 1 record at a time. How much are these things worth if I wanted to sell it?

Subject: Re: Garrard Lab 80 - How much is it worth?
Posted by Dominic on Wed, 05 Oct 2005 06:26:46 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

not much. I junked mine about 20 years ago.

Subject: Re: Garrard Lab 80 - How much is it worth?
Posted by hurdy_gurdyman on Wed, 05 Oct 2005 21:43:53 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

There has been one on epay for a while now that has a $25 opening bid. It's been listed at least twice now with no takers. I think it's still there. Here it is. <http://cgi.ebay.com/ws/eBayISAPI.dll?ViewItem&item=5811642872&rd=1&sspagename=STRK%3AMEWA%3AIT&rd=1> Looks like it didn't sell again. These old Garrards have a decent platter assembly, but very massive tonearms for modern cartridges. Might make a nice table for a newer tonearm conversion. Dave
Lab 80