I tend to work on different projects simultaneously. I'll get bored or run into a problem I can't figure out so I'll move on to a different project, then come back to the one that's giving me fits. Right now I'm making two HiFi speakers and I'm repairing an old stereo. What are you working on?

Hi, Normally I have 3-4 projects in the works at any time.....but...for the first time in years I have none. It feels odd not designing or building something.

You're due for a rest break, Bruce!

(and I hope when you get bored, you'll put together a phono stage kit!)

I'm creating a new media room. It has presented different challenges than I'm used to and I'm really enjoying it. There's lots to learn and I've always liked working with my hands.
