Subject: Movie Software
Posted by Lost the Remote on Fri, 21 Dec 2018 18:14:42 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

If you dabble in movie-making or just enjoy making videos to share on YouTube, you might want to check out TechRadar's website where you can download free copies of Digiarty's VideoProc, Abelssoft's MovieCut, and Abelssoft's ScreenVideo. I've played around with VideoProc and it's great for editing action footage from a GoPro. I'm not experienced with the software programs from Abelssoft, but I'm downloading both now so we'll see how it goes.

Subject: Re: Movie Software
Posted by TheWanderer on Sat, 22 Dec 2018 01:35:24 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Thanks for the suggestion. I've been thinking about making instructional YouTube videos, so this would be interesting to mess around with for a bit and see what I can do.

Subject: Re: Movie Software
Posted by musicluvr on Sun, 23 Dec 2018 00:57:01 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Wanderer, I currently use Ablessoft's Screen Video for making instructional videos and it's a good tool for that task. It's simple to use, which is a big plus in my book.