Subject: Illegal Drugs Portrayed in Movies
Posted by Jazzy on Wed, 13 Feb 2019 02:43:58 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Do you think some of the substances that actors are snorting or drinking in movies are the real deal? What about smoking weed on set, because it is now legal to smoke weed in some states?

Subject: Re: Illegal Drugs Portrayed in Movies
Posted by mamoss on Wed, 13 Feb 2019 08:25:57 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Most of the time, I think that they just put up a show so as to bring out the desired character in a set. Whether or not they use the real deal would depend on many factors.

Subject: Re: Illegal Drugs Portrayed in Movies
Posted by Newjack on Sun, 03 Mar 2019 02:46:44 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

I highly doubt it. I just can't see illegal drug usage being allowed on the set of a production. Also, there are multiple takes for one scene most of the time. Imagine the actor had to ingest drugs for each take. They would certainly not be in their right state of mind and be able to continue working.

Subject: Re: Illegal Drugs Portrayed in Movies
Posted by Rusty on Sun, 03 Mar 2019 14:57:51 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Why would any legitimate studio want to jeopardize having production shut down by procuring then using substances, as well as the above aspect of impairment of performers seems to be self evident. It's all make believe remember. Unless it's a documentary.

Subject: Re: Illegal Drugs Portrayed in Movies
Posted by Jethro on Sat, 09 Mar 2019 14:12:13 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

I would say that it depends on the kind of production and the kind of movie they are making. Big production companies with popular stars appearing on the film will not jeopardize their reputation by using illegal substances.