It has been a while since I upgraded my system and so I am now looking for something that will give the best watching and listening experience. Surround sound is such a priority too but I don't have a dedicated room yet. What are your thoughts on the floor standing speakers?

Despite the price of floor standing speakers being a bit higher they have better sound quality and they also add a good look to a home theater set up. I also love these speakers because of their versatility with the ability great audio quality for all kinds of media.
