I want that documentary to be my Christmas present to myself. Can anyone here attest to all the glowing reviews it got? I do know that it is the first time they ever played in Cuba, and probably the last, so I want to get it for at least that part.

Aside from the many Facebook pages dedicated to the band and members, which of course are going to sing their praises, everything I hear is good. The quality of the sound must be superb.

God bless them old bastards. They are the epitome of rock n roll. Still going, (at least as of 2016) playing a grueling tour. The image of Keith Richards from the clip of the tour. He looks like a cadaver still with a cig in hand and a ghoulissh laugh. You gotta admire their staying power.
