Have you ever been so reassured by a product review that your choice will be a good one, that you actually bought that product?

I can't say that I have, although I have read pretty convincing reviews in my day.

Hi, in my case the opposite. If there are bad reviews then I stay away. You now have to watch out for bogus positive reviews and to some extent to grudge ones.

Don't you just hate that you can't even trust good reviews anymore? The internet has taken away the legitimacy of some things and it can be a hindrance.
