I'm going to see this movie this weekend, and I'm really excited! It's really refreshing to see superhero movies that focus on some of the other Avengers. I'm excited for Hawkeye to get his own film! Has anyone seen this movie? Did you like it?

I haven't watched it yet, but it's intriguing because of its popularity on social media. There were comments about it stating that it's good how female heroes are now less sexualized. It will be cool to have a marathon and observe this.

@Beck, I 100% agree with you about how female superheros are being portrayed. It's great to see a change in the right direction.

@Raymond, I hope you'll let us know what you thought about it. I'm interested in seeing this one too.

The turnover of social events seems to help with how directors create movies now. Social media is also such a huge factor since people can easily criticize works that show misrepresentation. The change is for the better, so hopefully, it continues that way.
