
Subject: Hearing Better with Visuals

Posted by Beck on Wed, 21 Jul 2021 05:47:33 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Weirdly, it feels like I can hear better when I'm looking at something. Not necessarily subtitles, but watching a podcast helps me understand what they're explaining more than when I'm just listening to it. I find it challenging to absorb information when it's only from the audio. Then when watching a movie, I feel reassured better with the subtitles on. Do you have similar experiences?

Subject: Re: Hearing Better with Visuals

Posted by Madison on Wed, 21 Jul 2021 15:30:39 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Sometimes I think visuals are a distraction from what is being said. I'll actually close my eyes or turn my back and listen to it again. My hearing hasn't been damaged though. I know plenty of folks who need to see the person's lips in order to best hear what is being said.

Subject: Re: Hearing Better with Visuals

Posted by Strum Drum on Thu, 22 Jul 2021 01:57:51 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Absolutely. Although I'm not a fan of subtitles, I think visuals add to the overall experience and aid in the transformation of information. That's especially true when it's a topic I don't know much about.

Subject: Re: Hearing Better with Visuals

Posted by Souldude on Sun, 15 Aug 2021 15:40:14 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

I have the same experience with getting distracted, especially when the video is about a lecture or educational. I find it difficult to watch people talk on documentaries in an interview setting that I'd rather hear it as an audio.

Madison wrote on Wed, 21 July 2021 10:30 Sometimes I think visuals are a distraction from what is being said. I'll actually close my eyes or turn my back and listen to it again.

Subject: Re: Hearing Better with Visuals

Posted by Zart on Mon, 16 Aug 2021 14:42:47 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Some people find it difficult to watch with subtitles because it distracts them from watching. In my case, it helps me understand what's going on, although I sometimes find myself reading too much instead of watching the whole thing.

Subject: Re: Hearing Better with Visuals
Posted by Spotifier on Tue, 07 Sep 2021 08:46:57 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

If it's in a language that I don't understand, there's no doubt that I'd be needing subtitles. It also depends on the movie because some films would have loud sound effects, yet you can't almost hear it when the characters would speak.

Subject: Re: Hearing Better with Visuals
Posted by Kingfish on Wed, 08 Sep 2021 00:46:44 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

When I'm listening to something, the visuals are in my head. I was listening to a podcast in my car, and that's usually the way it goes. Radio is the same thing.

I can live without a T.V. I don't need visuals to help me comprehend audio
