Subject: Louder Volume Equals Inaudible Words
Posted by Phonetic Ear on Thu, 26 Aug 2021 02:24:18 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

I tend to adjust the volume on my phone whenever I'd use my earphones because the audio is either too high or too low. I realized,  in my experience, that louder volume doesn't mean that you'll get to understand the words better. Listening to anything with words gets difficult sometimes because you have to adjust the sound accordingly.

Subject: Re: Louder Volume Equals Inaudible Words
Posted by Wayne Parham on Thu, 26 Aug 2021 14:19:24 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

You might adjust the tone controls also.  Sometimes reducing bass improves intelligibility.

Subject: Re: Louder Volume Equals Inaudible Words
Posted by Beck on Sat, 28 Aug 2021 08:01:54 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

I can relate to this. I'd usually start with the lowest volume that I can understand and adjust from there. I'm always cautious when wearing earphones or earbuds because I tend to get surprised by loud sounds.

Subject: Re: Louder Volume Equals Inaudible Words
Posted by Zart on Sun, 10 Oct 2021 07:27:29 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Listening to podcasts with my earphones has let me experienced this too. I'd lower the volume when it's hurting my ears and then increase it when I can't understand anything anymore. It's a bit inconvenient, so I think it's better to have good audio equipment.

Subject: Re: Louder Volume Equals Inaudible Words
Posted by Concorde on Tue, 12 Oct 2021 17:48:09 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Wayne Parham wrote on Thu, 26 August 2021 09:19
You might adjust the tone controls also.  Sometimes reducing bass improves intelligibility.

Yeah, I was gonna say increase the treble, but it's kind of the same thing.

Once you know the lyrics though, you can hear them regardless of the settings.

---

Subject: Re: Louder Volume Equals Inaudible Words
Posted by LoveJB on Thu, 21 Oct 2021 18:30:30 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

I agree 100% with you. Honestly I have never thought of adjusting the bass on my phone when I listen to music. I tend to sing louder when I turn the music up.

---