What do you think of the Vilinice brand? Do you trust their projectors? These kinds of devices help convince me that I can ditch the theaters. It offers a 1080 full HD resolution and is compatible with multiple devices. Battery life isn't that bad at all too, but it's not rechargeable. Would you go for this?

I would, but I would start with the lower-end items first. They are only 3 or 4 years old, so I won't spend much while gaining their trust.

You have to give the start-ups a chance.

I agree, I would also go small and cheaper. I'm leary trying a new brand. I like to do a lot of review and read other people's comments. New brands and products lack this, so I would start small.

It has a good battery life, but it's not rechargeable? Did that bit come from a review? It's confusing, because it sounds like it's a one and done deal. You can watch it once on the battery, then you might as well throw it away and get something else, because it's no longer portable. Forgive me if I'm missing the point. I haven't had my morning coffee yet.

I've never heard of them. I usually stick with familiar names. I have one by Samsung that's really nice. I got it for less than a grand. I've had it for a while and it's been knocked over the pets many times. It's still in good shape.
