I only got intrigued to watch this series because I kept seeing it on Social media. I came to like it because of the emotional impact of the deaths. It showed a lot about the current state of our society too. There were a lot of dilemmas, and tough decisions were inevitable. Have you watched this series too? What's your take on it?

Even before watching it, there were already too many spoilers because of its popularity. However, I've also seen some articles saying that its theme is similar to previous films made before.

Yep, a new take on an old storyline. Hollywood has a severe lack of imagination. Some people don't mind watching things like this, and that's ok.

It seems to be the new show on Netflix that everyone is talking about. Are you guys fans? The show's premise sounds spectacular for Halloween. I can't say that I've seen it, though.

I haven't watched it but seeing that its theme is similar to many previous shows makes me think it's only your usual survival game film. It may have gained popularity because of the Korean wave and with the help of the platform.

Thanks to all the spoilers, I ended up not bothering to watch it. The plot twists could have been great. Although, all respect to the writer for the sacrifices he made for that show to work. There were a lot of articles about his effort because of the film's popularity.
