When choosing a platform to store your favorite song on, which do you prefer? I'm a You Tube person because there are also movies I can save.

How bout you?

I do YT as well, but just because I'm more familiar with it. I know there are ads in both of the free versions so it doesn't matter in that regard, I just don't want to learn how to navigate a new platform.

I don't use either for storage, and didn't even realize that it could be done. I watch short clips on YouTube and I listen to playlists on Spotify, but that's about as exciting as it gets for me.

I don't store music, but I mostly go to Youtube now for their ambiance music. It's calming, and I don't have to listen to ads. There's also the comfort of not having to choose from many options.

If by "storage" you mean somewhere I can save videos elsewhere and watch later, then yes, You Tube.

There are certain songs by certain artists they don't have, but I can live with that.

The watch later does me good, so I'll have to go with YouTube. I don't often go on organizing a playlist, and having that option saves me from thinking. It's also easy to download anything from there.

And I never thought about it before, but YT does make it to where you don't have to think too much about it. lol

There's the algorithm factor that lets YouTube suggest the best stuff. The recommendation is one of its features that makes things easier when listening to music or even a lecture. Then yeah, there are the easy downloads, and you can also skip the ads.

I don't store my music but I can play songs very well during the day, afternoon and evening, night is never exception too. I prefer to use Spotify for all my songs, YouTube doesn't give me what I wanted when it comes to playing music.

What is the experience like? Are there songs that you wanted to play on YouTube, but you couldn't get them on the platform?

I have an ongoing monthly subscription on Spotify and must say that it has been an amazing few months since I started using it. This is not to say that YouTube music is not good, but my preference has been Spotify all this while.

I didn't say that YouTube music hasn't been great for others but as for me, I prefer to use other streaming app for my music, it mustn't be YouTube music because I don't fancy it.

It is simply Spotify. The app keeps getting better with each passing day, and it is clear to see the efforts the team put into building a very good app for music lovers. I've been using Spotify for a long time and haven't thought of making a change any time soon.
